

My older brother, John Bernabei has been in residential services throughout Las Vegas for the last 20 years. He loves living with his peers and doing activities with them. I have seen over and over again how limited group homes are in being able to provide activities because of staffing and transportation issues. I've also seen abuse and neglect in many of these homes because of the lack of accountability of staff. If he lives in a planned community surrounded by his peers with staff support and activities on site he would be very happy and very safe and in the end that's what we want most for our family members. I'm fully in support of Betty's Village.
