

As a woman with a significant disability, I am appalled by this action. People with developmental disabilities and intellectual disabilities DD/IDD have been fighting to be included in everyday society for over 50 years. With the Omsted act, I would think we were more progressive thinking. So why are we going backward? So many other states are closing their segregated living settings, and Nevada going back in time. How can society finally accept people with developmental disabilities and intellectual disabilities as a part of the fabric of society, if we are going to hide "them" away!!!!!! Please do not let this happen.
